

Modern grill

The Element by Fuego gas grill is designed by Robert Brunner, a former industrial designer for Apple. The roasting lid with temperature gauge and vents transforms the 27-inch grill into a convection-like oven that barbecues, slow cooks, roasts or bakes. Tops convert it into a pizza oven ($79) or a griddle ($129).

■ The Element, available in June, red or white powder-coated finish, $399; stainless steel, $599; www.elementbyfuego.com, 1-888-883-8346 | Stacy Downs, sdowns@kcstar.com

Outer Spaces

PATHS | The trails into and around your garden and yard

STEP THIS WAY: Fieldstones set in a gravel path lead through an informal cottage garden. Plants spill out of flower beds on either side of the path, and those that reseed are allowed to pop up in the gravel.

GREEN SWEEP: A cool grass path, edged with limestone, runs between flower beds in a garden.